Conclusion:

Reaffirmation of principles from Abraham and Joseph:

1. The God who calls us takes the initiative to reveal Himself.
2. God does not limit His work in someone's life to geographical boundaries on a map.
3. God commits Himself to us as we commit ourselves to God in trust and obedience.
4. The path that God calls us to walk is not always easy, but His presence, protection and work are always certain.
5. God wants us to be ready to move forward with Him and not be chained to the past.
6. We are pilgrims and our real home is wherever God calls us.
7. God works in us to build our character to match our circumstances and situations.

8. Dysfunctional and disastrous circumstances do not cancel our God's ability to bring about Good ends or results.
9. Some disastrous circumstances happen in our life as a part of God's future design to bring good about.
10. God's actions and work in Joseph's life are designed to foreshadow God's ultimate promise for the world.
11. God's ultimate desire is not to bring disaster but to bring triumph into our life situations and circumstances.

Principles discovered from how God used Moses to deliver his people:

1. God never forgets his promises.
2. God's plans do not always match our plan.
3. God never loses sight of His people.
4. God is never deaf when it comes to his people's cries.
5. God is a God who acts to rescue and deliver His people.
6. God sends deliverance and rescue through the persons He calls.
7. God orchestrates the accomplishment of His plans in history.
